PROJECTS

Automatic Water Filling Machine   FEB-2023 TO JUN-2023

- The concept of automatic sorting and bottle filling is implemented in this project. A microcontroller is utilized as the control system. The bottles are sorted on the conveyer belt using IR sensors, and subsequently, the solenoid valves are activated to fill these bottles.

Portfolio Website

- Our objective for this project is to create a portfolio website using HTML, CSS, and JavaScript. This website will serve as an online representation of yourself on the internet. It will consist of various sections such as an introduction to yourself, information about you, your services, contact details, and your skills. Our aim is to develop an engaging and visually appealing web design that will attract a larger audience. To achieve this, we will utilize the capabilities of HTML, CSS, and JavaScript.
